HUMPHREYS'S COMPANION.

THE STORY HE TOLD TO THE CORONER.

SOME INCONSISTENCIES BETWEEN IT AND THE AC-COUNT GIVEN TO INSPECTOR BYRNES.

COUNT GIVEN TO INSPECTOR BYRNES.

James A. Byrnes, who is implicated in the supposed robbery and the death of Jay Humphreys on Tuesday night and who surrendered himself to the police on Thursday, was taken from Police Headquarters vesterday morning to the Coroners' office. Coroner Levy had set an early hour for the inquest, but after hearing Byrnes's testimony he decided to adjourn the further hearing until 10 o'clock this morning. Byrnes, although he gave his age as thirty, has the appearance of being much older. His head is partly bald and he looks dissipated. He appeared to be laboring under an intense mental strain, as though it was an effort for him to remember the circumstances of the night of Humphreys's death. When he began speaking, Stang, the cab-driver, was in the room, but the Coroner deemed it advisable to have him retire. Byrnes's testimony was somewhat different from the story which he told Inspector Byrnes on Thursday night. Then he said that he called a cab, that Humphreys desired simply to take a ride "up the road" without designating any place, that when the watch fell out of the unconscious man's pocket he put it in his own and that after he found Humphreys was dead he took a train of the elevated railway and went to Brooklyn. The following was his testimony yesterday:

My name is James A. Byrnes and I reside at No. 584 Seventh-ave. in this city. Tam a salesman for Lopez &

I am a salesman for Lopez & Seventh-ave, in this city. I am a salesman for Lopez & Seventh-ave, in this city. I am a salesman for Lopez & Seventh-ave, and I think that I asked him up. The bartender came out and I think that I asked him where he lived and he fold me at the Albany Flats, at Fifty-second-st. and Broadway. I requested the bartender to get a cab, which he did. The cab-driver and myself helped him into the cab, and Humphreys asked me to go with him and I did so. I told the driver to go to Fifty-second-st. and Broadway, and Humphreys asked me to go with him and I did so. I told the driver to go to Fifty-second-st. and Broadway, and Humphreys hen said that he did not want to go home, but to be driven up the road. I asked want go home, but to be driven up the road. I asked humdred-and-twenty-third-st. and Eighth-ave, but then hundred-and-twenty-third-st. and Eighth-ave, but then hundred-and-twenty-third-st. and Eighth-ave, but then hundred-and-twenty-third-st. and Eighth-ave, but then hundred-shot way up. When we got to "Georgis" the driver and I helped him out of the cab and in doing so I picked up his watch and chaim from the bettom of the cab and handed it to the driver, saying, "There is his watch." After we had get him out we sat him up on the mat in front of the watch and chaim. I then knocked at the door. This was about midnight. Somebody came to the door. This wa to Seventh-ave., to my house, which I reached between 2 and 3 oclock Wednesday morning. I knew Humphreys socially, having met him four or five times.

When Byrnes was asked where he had met Humphreys socially, he said: "Why, around the Casino and at Spencer's eating-house, at Fulton-st. and Broadway." When Byrnes had finished his story he was taken back to Police Headquarters.

At Byrnes's boarding-house the landlady told a Trangung reporter that he had not been there since Tuesday morning; then he told her that he had not been feeling well for some time and that he intended going home to Stratford, Conn., to remain a few days. She was sure that he had not been at the house since. He had lived at that address for three years. A man answering Byrnes's description in every particular took the down-town train at the elevated railway station at One-hundred-and-forty-fifth-st, and Eighth-ave., at 1:03 Wednesday morning. The trains at that hour run at intervals of thirty minutes. Mr. Spencer said that he was not acquainted with Mr. Humphreys and knew of no person resembling him. Mr. Lopez, Byrnes's employer, said that he had no fault to find with him as an employe, but he had heard that Byrnes was a "little wild." Ex-Justice Michael Norton. who has known Byrnes for several years, exclaimed when asked his opinion of Byrnes, "Oh, he's a 'rounder,' but I don't think he weuld rob a man." Byrnes will be examined by the Coroner at the inquest this morning, and will be confronted with Siang, the driver of the ceb.

The body of Mr. Humphreys, inclosed in a plain black-cloth covered collin, was placed in the front parlor of Dr. Frederick Humphreys's home at No. 22 West Thirty-ninth-st., yesterday. At the fineral services only few persons were present other than the widow and children of the deceased wan and his intimate friends. The Rev. Dr. Howband, of the Church of the Heavenly Rest_assisted by the Kev. D. P. Morgan, the assistant rector, read the burial scivic and toky the testimony of the proprietor and

Mr. St. John said that he had little confidence in the police. A detective who was sent to investigate the robbery on Thursday began his work by inquiring how much the Power Paper Company would be willing to pay for the recovery of the stolen pencils. A PRIEST CHARGED WITH ASSAULT.

In the Court of Quarter Sessions at Newark yesterday testimony was taken in the case of Father Joseph F. Mendel, the officiating priest in the Roman Catholic Church at Monteiniar. The complainant was John McCarthy who stated that on September 2 he attended 8 o'clock mass. Just before the service was ended he started to go out, but found the door locked and some women waiting to have the door opened. He tried to open the door and while thus engaged Father Mendel came into the vestibule. The complainant said to him, "Father, how is it the door is locked so that the people cannot get out?" Without replying, according to the statement of McCarthy, the priest raised his clenched fist and struck him a powerful blow on the left eye. When McCarthy arrived home he suffered intense pain in the eye, the sight of which had been destroyed when he was a boy, and a few days afterward the eye was removed by Dr. Casey, of Bloomfield. Two of the women, members of the church were examined by Judge McCarter but they testified reluctantly. One woman said that she saw the priest raise his hand but that she did not see the blow struck. The counsel for Father Mendel entered a plea of my wit to the indictment and the case was adjourned in order that the testimony of Dr. Casey might be taken.

THE BRITISH MUST USE THE CABLE

The young Englishman who was arrested on Wednesday hight on the steamer Wyoming was taken before Commissioner Oaborn yesterday for examination. He is charged with being George Flood, who was accused of fogery in England and who escaped from the officers. Consul-General Booker made the complaint on information received by cable from England. When the prisoner was arrested he said that his name was Perry and that he had not been guilty of any crime. He was accompanied by his wife and child who remained at the Astor House while he was at Ludlow Street Jali. F. F. Marbury, the counsel for the British Government, asked for an adjournment of the case until the arrival of papers that were expected by the steamer from England. Colonel C. S. Spencer, the prisoner's counsel, asked that no adjournment be given. Commissioner Osborn decided that the British authorities must use the cable to obtain information in order that the prisoner might know of what he was accused. The prisoner was remanded until today.

THE IDENTIFICATION BROKEN DOWN. THE CLERKS WHO RECOGNIZED ENOS AS BENNETT

SAY THEY WERE MISTAKEN.

THE CLERKS WHO RECOGNIZED ENOS AS BENNETT SAY THEY WERE MISTAKEN.

Recorder Smyth, as committing magistrate, held an examination yesterday as to the identity of Thomas Enos, who was arrested by Inspector Byrnes on November 22 as the person who, under the name of A. C. Bennett, sold coupons that were fraudulently obtained from W. B. Carroll, of the Controller's office. The defendant is a rather goodlooking young man, with prominent eyes and a fair moastache. He was well dressed. He was defended by ex. Judge Horace Russell. Acting District Attorney Vincent conducted the prosecution. Timothy H. Fay, who is now a clerk in the Controller's office, was called as the first witness. He said that he knew the defendant by sight.

Mr. Fellows—How long have you know him.

The witness—I have known that face for one and a half years; but I want to make a statement right here. I wish to say that I have made an affidavit that that is the man who sold coupons of city bonds under the name of A. C. Bennett. I am still of the opinion that that is the face of the man, but there is a discrepancy about the helght. I have thought a long while about the mater, and I have had dreams in which Carroll, Bennett and Enos were all mixed up, and the result is that now I feel that I cannot swear positively that that is the man who sold coupons as A. C. Bennett.

The witness's explanation was made with some difficulty, but he seemed relieved when it was over. Continuing his testimony, he said that he first saw that face in the office of Hagen & Billing, at No. 1 Wall-st., a few years ago. He was then a clerk in that office. Mr. Hagen and others bought coupons of the man whose face he remembered. He saw the defendant at Police Headquarters on November 22; and identified him as Bennett. He was positive in his identification at that time. In April he went with one of Pinkerton's detectives to No. 12 East Fortieth-st., and then said that a man who was pointed out was not Bennett. That man night have been the defendant. This man looks tailer than Be

"Then you tains its list. I think I have made a mistake."
Robert G. Lexow, a boyish-looking clerk of Hagen & Billing, was then called by District-Attorney Vincent. He had seen Bennett in the broker's office and had seen Enos at H. adquarters. He said that he had identified Enos. He had no doubt at that time, but on thinking it over had come to the conclusion that he was mistaken. He visited the Controller's office after going to Police Headquarters, and told Controller Grant that he though Enos was the man. He had talked with other clerks and persons who had seen Bennett. He now thought that Bennett had a longer face and was shorter in figure than Enos.

"Well, do you think this looks like the man?" asked Mr. Vincent.

"Yes and no," the witness answered. "I think the face is almost exactly like, but the figure and height are different."

the face is almost exactly like, but the figure and height are different."

After Inspector Byrnes had testified as to the arrest of Enos, and that he was identified positively by Fay and Lexow, ex-Judge Russell called Edward Morrison, a clerk in the office of E. Morrison & Co., of No. 17 Wall-st. He testified that Bennett had sold some coupons at the office where he was comployed, and that the defendant was not the man. He was positive of that fact. Otis Field looked more like the man than Enos did. He testified that a number of photographs shown him looked like those of Bennett. The defence was prepared to call a large number of other withcesses, but at this point District-Attorney Vincent said that he was convinced that it was useless to continue the case. Ex-Judge Russell said to Recorder Smyth:

I have a large number of witnesses here, bankers and I have a large number of witnesses here, bankers and others, and I want to make it plain that this is not the man. The defendant has been branded as a criminal and I want to establish his innocence beyond the shadow of a doubt. Lask leave to continue the taking of testimony. Recorder Smyth—I think if you have satisfied the District-Attorney you ought to be contented. You may have it entered on the record that the District-Attorney is satisfied that on this evidence the man must be declared innocent and I agree with him. The prisoner is discharged. Enos was congratulated by his friends, of whom there were many in the court room. Mr. Russell made a remark criticising Inspector Byrne's action, but Recorder Smyth said:

I do not blame the Inspector. He could not do other-wise than he did. He was right in acting on the informa-tion he received, and he would have been derelict if he had not done what he did.

COMPLAINT AGAINST A EOWERY MUSEUM.

Mayor Edson yesterday continued the hearing in regard to the complaints against the various maseums and other cheap places of amusement along the Bowery. Elbridge I, Gerry, president of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, said that in the Globe Museum, at No. 208 Eowery, a girl only ten years old was employed to play the concertina. In one instance, at least, a girl of fifteen years was induced to visit the museum, and from there was taken to a house of had reputation. These statements were corroborated by two of the agents of the Society. J. Campbell, manager of the Globe Museum, said that the season began on September 15, and, as an "attraction," he engaged several young women, dressed them in the latest style, and called them "lady dudes." Nothing improper was allowed within the museum. The little girl who played the concertina was a daughter of the blind piano-player, and her weekly play was of great help to him. Chang, the Chinese giant, was hired from P. T. Barnum. His salary was $350 a week and his board was $7 a day. The museum had been in existence for several years, and no complaint had ever before been made against it. The great neglority of the people who composed the audisnee were respectable. Of course the management could not tell whether there were improper characters among the audience or not, so long as they behaved themselves. It could not be held responsible for the girl that was led away by her evil companions, as she was not employed in the place. Several witnesses, edvertising agents and others, who occasionally visited the place, said they had never seen anything wrong there.

The Mayor said he would give a decision at an early day. He has declined to renew the license of "Sandy" Spencer, for the "Palace Music Hall," Nos. 300 and 302 Bowery. COMPLAINT AGAINST A BOWERY MUSEUM.

Swift's Specific (S. S. S.), the greater portion of it having been consumed by the female portion of my family, and with the happiest results. It acted like a charm on my wife, who had been in ban health for a long time, and for whom I have had been in bas health for a long time, and for whom I have paid hundreds of dollars for doctors and medicines. It began to build her up from the first dose. Another female member of my family took it with equally satisfactory results. It is certainty the best tent for delicate ladies that I have even used, and I have tried them all. I have no doubt that want of exercise, close confinement in poorly ventilated houses, sewergas poison and malarial poison often produce sickness among our wives, daughters and sisters, and I believe Swift's Specific is the remedy for all this sort of blood poisoning.
